4

5 Method and apparatus for an application-sharing interface is described. More 6 particularly, an interface program is provided to application sharing. One aspect of this 7 interface program facilitates application sharing by reducing it to a two-step process
8 hiding underlying details from a user. This interface program in cooperation with a 9 conferencing program facilitates application sharing by enabling a user to select one or 10 more files and one or more participants. After which, this interface program 11 automatically establishes application sharing. This interface program provides both an 12 application list and a participant list to facilitate a user's selection thereof.
